The Objectives of the Extension Activity

- To Discover the inner subtle self and bring self-realization to the masses through meditation. It enables people to experience the reality of their own energy
- To Experience emotional well-being and self-improvement.
- To get to know yourself through self-realization.
- To Learn the Basics of Sahaja Yoga
- To transform human awareness through techniques that promote a more moral, united, integrated, and balanced self.

Inaugural Session:

The session started with an inaugural speech by Dr.Saumya Hinduja, Senior Clinical Nutritionist.

She highlighted Meditation really helps you control your mind. If you can't control your mind, you're purely ruled by your nervous system and your environment, so you're just reacting to things without being able to reflect on them. On the other hand, focus leads to composure, self-empowerment.

Get to know yourself through self-realization. Self-realization is the foundation of Sahaja yoga. It is based on an experience called the “Kundalini awakening,” which can occur within all human beings. After going through the various steps, you should encounter a transformation that makes you a more moral, united, integrated, and balanced person.

- If you successfully accomplish self-realization, you should be able to feel the divine power sweep over your body in the form of a breeze that passes over your hand and head.
- It is believed by its practitioners that this experience has been witnessed by hundreds of thousands of people in over ninety countries worldwide.

Understand the subtle system. The subtle system is made up of nadis and chakras. Nadis, or channels, carry energy throughout the body while chakras, or “wheels,” are the centers of energy located in the body. There are three primary vertical channels of energy and seven major chakras. This system can only be activated with a Kundalini awakening. The Kundalini awakening simultaneously cleans and balances the system and enlightens and purifies the chakras.

- Each chakra has spiritual abilities. The chakras always exist in the body but they do not manifest their full qualities until the Kundalini is awakened.
- When the Kundalini rises and nourishes the chakras, our bodies automatically become dynamic, creative, confident, and very humble.

Know the spiritual abilities of the chakras. Chakras are called wheels because this is where the energy spins with frequency, similar to a galaxy of planets spinning on their axis. Chakras are located along the spinal cord region and supervise and maintain the perfect operation of the bodily system. What attracts and disturbs the chakras influences their sensitivity and performance. Self-realization will enlighten the central nervous system, allowing you to feel each of the seven chakras.

- The mooladhara, or first chakra, will help you rediscover your innocence, and innate and intuitive wisdom.

- The second chakra, or swadisthana, will stimulate your creative instincts and establish pure knowledge.
- At the nabhi, third chakra, the realization of your accomplishments will be satisfied and your inner peace will be established within.
- Your heart will be opened along with compassion for family and friends during the fourth chakra, or anahat.
- Good communication, a sense of perspective, and a balanced approach to stressful situations will be summoned during vishuddhi, or the fifth chakra.
- At the sixth chakra, or agnya, your forgiveness will allow you to move forward with life without grudges or hatred. You will be able to identify with your freedom and power of your inner self.
- Finally, the last chakra, sahasrara, will allow you to have a transformative connection that enables you to understand a deeper and truer meaning and purpose to your life.

Know the channels, or nadis. There are three main nadis: the left channel (Ida Nadi), also called the “moon channel,” is located along the left side of the body and provides the conduit for the energy of our desire. The right channel (Pingala Nadi), or “sun channel,” runs along the right side of the body and is responsible for active energy, as well as our mental and physical activities. The central channel (Sushumna Nadi) is located along the spine to the highest chakra.

- The central channel coordinates the nervous system activities. It is not until the awakening of the Kundalini and its travel through the central channel and out through the top of the head that recognition occurs of the vastness of the subtle system.
- The left channel represents different qualities and aspects such as the expression of our desires and the past. Here one might collect all one's habits and conditionings. If this channel is obstructed or out of balance, you might feel depressed, sad or lazy. Through the practice of Sahaja Yoga, you might be able to remove all the obstacles on this channel so you can be free from the past.
- The right channel is related with the power of action and the future. If this channel is not in balance, it is easily blinded by ego and can change our behavior to be more aggressive and dominating. The Sahaja Yoga meditation can remove this negativity and restore balance between the channels and the chakras.
- Ask the energy to rise through your central channel to give you self-realization.

Experiencing Self-Realization Meditation

Prepare for self-realization. Sahaja yoga provides the conscious awareness of subtle energy found in the body through true meditation. It is a natural awakening that has measurable beneficial effects on the body's well-being without side effects, special exercises, chanting, or mantras. As Sahaja yoga has become more popular around the world, it has proven to be effective in people's lives everywhere, regardless of age, occupation, race, color, or creed.

- Find a comfortable place to sit down with little distraction. During the experience, your left hand will remain on your left lap with your palm facing up.
- You can also sit on a chair or on the floor in a comfortable position, and remove your shoes to have better contact with the earth element.
- Your right palm will be used to touch certain parts of your body on the left side.
- As you make the motions, keep your eyes closed during the entire experience so that you can keep your attention “inside.”
- It is recommended that you take your shoes off since Mother Earth drains all negative energy through the feet.

Perform self-realization meditation. The divine power is easily awoken inside all of us during the performing of Sahaja yoga. During the experience, one can feel the divine vibration in their hands. You will also be able to feel a cool breeze on the top of your hands and head. These “vibrations” are believed to be divine energy so real that it can be captured on film.

- It is believed that an inner energy resides in the sacrum bone known as Kundalini. This energy is like a Mother who remains dormant, waiting patiently to be awakened by an authorized Guru so you can achieve self-realization and become your own master.
- Put your right hand on your heart and then ask the Kundalini inside of you three times: “Mother, am I the spirit?”
- Place your right hand under the ribs on the left-hand side of your body and ask the Kundalini three times: “Mother, am I my own master?”
- After that, place your right hand on your left side just below the belt, gently press and ask the Kundalini inside your body six times: “Mother, please give me the pure knowledge.”
- Then, put your right hand under your left ribs and say ten times: “Mother, I am my own master.”
- Place your right hand over your heart and repeat to the Kundalini twelve times: “Mother, I am the pure spirit.”

- Next, put your right hand between your neck and left shoulder while turning your head towards the right. Repeat sixteen times to the Kundalini: “Mother, I am not guilty at all.”
- While placing your right hand on your forehead, bend your head down and say a few times: “Mother, I forgive everyone including myself.”
- Then, put your right hand on the back of your head, push your head back and say, “Oh, Divine Power, if I have committed any mistakes, please forgive me.”
- Finally, open your hand fully and press on the fontanelle bone area on top your head. Move it slowly clockwise seven times, moving your scalp in unison with your hand. Each time repeat: Mother, please give me my Self-Realization."

Conclude the self-realization meditation. After you completed the meditation, take a moment to absorb your environment and to experience your feelings. By the time you finish, your feelings should be relaxed and your thoughts should have disappeared.

- This is considered the first step of meditation, or “thoughtless awareness,” when you were completely cognizant without thought, in a pure state of peaceful consciousness.
- Now that you have reached this stage, you should feel the sensation of the cool breeze on the top of your hands and head. This is the Kundalini energy purifying the chakras in your body.
- If you fail to experience the breeze, the most likely cause is you did not forgive everybody. Therefore, say “Mother, I forgive everyone” a few times and check for the cool breeze once again.

Reaping the Benefits of Sahaja Yoga

Discover the inner subtle self. Nourishing chakras produces lifelong improvement of your own personal qualities. Consistent Sahaja yoga practice will help you concentrate on which specific chakras need attention and how to develop the specific qualitative aspects associated with each chakra.

Experience emotional well-being and self-improvement. The inner calm that is part of the Sahaja yoga experience boosts your emotional resilience. This ensures your ability to cope with stress now and in the future. Sahaja yoga also helps to restore balance internally and externally in your life. It helps build self-esteem in relationships and accomplishments, repairs any negative feelings, and brings peace and contentment.

- Kundalini energy extends beyond the meditation period and into your daily life. Thus, you benefit from meditation, yoga, and self-realization.
- Sahaja yoga helps you to self-regulate your attention and concentration on the present. It enhances your openness and curiosity.
- You will quickly realize how you take time to make good decisions by analyzing your thoughts, feelings, and sensations as they occur resulting in increased self-awareness.
- Communication with others will improve as your levels of compassion and empathy increase for yourself and for others. You become more cognizant of the flow of energy in the environment, in your mind, and through the eyes of others.

Enjoy the mental health benefits of Sahaja yoga. Evidence from several clinical and neurobiological studies demonstrate the impact that meditation has on influencing brain chemical activities that regulate attention, mood, and emotions in positive ways. Studies indicate that Sahaja yoga increases positive emotions, reduces negative emotions, improves emotional flexibility and coping skills, and overall psychological stability.

- Cognitive improvements were also found in self-esteem, self-awareness, mindfulness, emotional intelligence, and self-realization.
- Sahaja yoga also relieves anxiety, improves blood pressure, may help manage asthma, and may relieve depression.

Glimpses of the camp are: The vote of thanks was given by Mr.Nitin Yadav convener of the Session. Expressing his gratitude he thanked Mr. Kunal Chaturvedi (Student Coordinator), BBA Student and Dr M N Jha, Dean, TIAS for their support and timely presence. He also thanked Dr. Ajay Kumar, Director, TIAS for his support and confidence in him for giving the move ahead.

Learning Outcome:

- Over time, you will develop into a more spiritual, subtler person with heightened awareness of the important virtues of life.
- As you strengthen the state and condition of your channels and chakras, you will simultaneously recognize how your relationships, creativity, focus, productivity and decision-making ability all improve.
- Taking control over your energy sources and the paths they travel through in your body will allow you to manage ill thoughts and feelings, regulate self-damaging emotions, and feelings of worthlessness. You will be better equipped to problem-solve.

- Stress relief is the base-level benefit for Sahaja yoga practitioners and some clinical results have confirmed that belief. It is believed that thoughtless awareness significantly improves the ability to cope with difficult events by reducing stress and boosting positive emotions.
- Sahaja yoga confronts addiction and substance abuse by rewiring the old pleasure-reward-motivation patterns that the brain has learned over a lifetime. This helps eradicate bad habits.
