Modern Era and Ancient Vedic Herbs

got Fame all over the world and attracted individuals from all over the world to come India and find a way to their health problems. As time passed, many other medications got introduced in the market like allopathy, homeopathy which used to cure in less duration of time than Ayurvedic Herbs/medicines. Initially the crowd got attracted to them as these new medications were less time-consuming, but they also left many side effects on the consumer if used for a long time. In Ayurveda it is a slow process it takes a lot of time in curing process but it cures the disease by removing the roots of the disease from the patient's body and also leaves no side effects. This is the reason why people prefer and trust ayurveda more than any other medication methods. Lately, Ayurveda lost its importance and reach because of the introduction of Modern Diagnostic techniques but from last few years Ayurveda is gaining its recognition again on international level. there are many companies which promote and utilize these Vedic herbs for the treatment of diseases and attract people.

In today's hectic Lifestyle, Ayurveda is a method which focuses on the physical as well as mental well-being of an individual and deals with a healthy life style, health protection and sustenance, disease prevention and diagnosis and treatment.

- Nidhi Mishra, BAJMC

India is a home to thousands of herbs over centuries and these Vedic got Fame for their extraordinary curing advantages. Talking about the origination and importance of these ancient Vedic herbs, the idea or tradition of using Herbs as disease curing medicine originated in India and got popular by the term 'Ayurveda' derived from the Sanskrit word 'Ayur' means life and 'Veda' means science. Ayurveda got its origination during the Vedic period, where Saints recognized the usefulness of these Vedic Herbs as a medicine and started using them for curing many so-called and so-accepted incurable diseases. slowly, these Vedic herbs
