The Electoral Literacy Club (ELC) organized a blog writing competition in an online format with the aim of promoting awareness and understanding of electoral processes among its members. The last date to submit the blog is 14th March, 2024 and the flyer attracted enthusiastic participation from members of the ELC, comprising students, educators, and community members interested in civic engagement. Through this competition, the ELC sought to leverage the power of digital platforms to engage participants in meaningful discourse on topics related to elections, democracy, and civic responsibility. Participants were invited to submit blog posts addressing various aspects of electoral literacy, including voter registration, voting procedures, electoral reforms, and the importance of informed decision-making in elections. The competition encouraged participants to explore these themes creatively and articulate their perspectives through well-researched and compelling writing.

Entries were evaluated by Nodal officer Ms. Chahat Malhotra based on predetermined criteria, including clarity of expression, relevance to the theme, depth of analysis, and overall impact. Judges assessed each entry impartially, taking into account the quality of writing, coherence of arguments, and engagement with the subject matter.

The blog writing competition received a commendable response, with a diverse range of entries reflecting the varied interests and perspectives of the participants. Entries covered a wide spectrum of topics, ranging from the role of technology in electoral processes to the significance of youth participation in democracy. Overall, the blog writing competition proved to be a valuable platform for fostering electoral literacy and civic engagement among members of the Electoral Literacy Club. By harnessing the potential of online communication, the competition facilitated meaningful dialogue and encouraged participants to become active contributors to the democratic process. Such initiatives are essential for building informed and responsible citizens who are empowered to participate effectively in elections and contribute to the strengthening of democratic institutions.
