A session on Mock Interview session was organized by Department of Management Sciences (MBA), TIAS on 05.03.2024 for the students of MBA 1st Year. The speaker was Dr Pooja Sharma .Whereas Dr Archana, Mr Karan Babbar contributed as Resource Person

The Resource person Dr Pooja Sharma stated Mock Interview Skills are a valuable tool for job seekers as they provide an opportunity to practice and refine their interview skills. They simulate a real interview experience and allow candidates to receive feedback on their performance.

He also highlighted that can help reduce anxiety and build confidence. Job interviews can be nerve-racking, especially for those who are not accustomed to them. By participating in a mock interview, candidates can become familiar with the interview format, questions, and overall process, which can help them feel more at ease.

Mock interviews also allow candidates to identify and address any weaknesses in their interview techniques. For example, they may realize that they tend to ramble

	or struggle with certain types of questions. With this feedback, candidates can work on improving their responses, articulation, and overall communication skills. Feedback from mock interviews is an invaluable resource. Additionally, mock interviews can help candidates identify any gaps in their knowledge or experience that they can address before going into a real interview. Lastly, the mock interviews are a valuable preparation tool for job seekers. They provide a safe space to practice interview skills, receive feedback, and identify areas for improvement. By utilizing mock interviews, candidates can better prepare for the real interview and increase their chances of landing the job.
