Report: Description in (min 250 to max 800 words)*	The RJ Hunt event at the Annual Fest Yatharth, organized by Maharaja Agrasen College, University of Delhi, took place on 15th March 2024. This competition aimed to discover the best amateur radio jockeys among students while providing a platform for creative expression and communication skills. Participants showcased their talents in a lively and engaging manner, capturing the audience's attention with their charisma and wit. The event began at 10:00 AM in the college auditorium, with enthusiastic participants ready to demonstrate their skills in various rounds. Each participant had the opportunity to present their unique style of broadcasting, incorporating music, storytelling, and interactive segments. The theme "Voices of the Future" resonated throughout the competition, emphasizing the importance of youth voices in shaping cultural narratives.

Kamakshi Joshi from Tecnia Institute of Advanced Studies (TIAS) participated passionately in the competition. Her ability to engage the audience, along with her creative approach, earned her the 3rd position. Kamakshi's performance included a blend of humor and insightful commentary on contemporary issues, demonstrating her understanding of the role of media in society. The judges, comprising experienced professionals from the media industry, praised her creativity and ability to connect with the audience.

The event was not just about competition; it served as a platform for participants to develop valuable skills. The learning outcomes were significant, as students honed their public speaking abilities and learned to think on their feet during spontaneous challenges. The environment fostered teamwork, as many participants collaborated and shared ideas, further enriching their experiences.

Throughout the day, the audience was treated to a variety of performances that highlighted different aspects of radio jockeying. From entertaining skits to informative segments, the event showcased the versatility and creativity of the participants. The judges also conducted feedback sessions after each performance, providing constructive criticism and encouragement to help the participants improve.

Kamakshi's achievement of securing the 3rd position was celebrated not only by her peers but also by the faculty at TIAS, who recognized her hard work and dedication. This accomplishment served as motivation for other students to explore their interests in media and communication.

The RJ Hunt event concluded with a prize distribution ceremony, where participants were awarded certificates and trophies for their outstanding performances. The cultural committee of Maharaja Agrasen College successfully created a platform that allowed students to express themselves creatively while also promoting the importance of communication skills in today's world.

Overall, the RJ Hunt at Yatharth 2024 was a resounding success, bringing together students from different backgrounds and encouraging them to embrace their voices as future leaders in the field of media. The event not only highlighted the talents of the participants but also reinforced the values of creativity, teamwork, and cultural awareness among the youth.
